Lokahi, Outrigger keep winning canoe regattas

Lokahi collected 54 points to claim its third consecutive Hui Wa'a Association canoe regatta, held yesterday at Waimanalo.

At the Oahu Hawaiian Canoe Racing Association's regatta at Nanakuli Beach yesterday, Outrigger outpointed Hui Nalu, 85-57, for its second title in as many regattas.

Curren surfs to Gotcha crown

Gotcha Pro '86 meet in three- to five-foot surf.

Curren, 22, of Carpinteria, Calif., is the defending world champion of the Association of Surfing Professionals and has won the first two events on the 1986-87 world tour. He received $4,000.

Brad Gerlach, a 20-year-old from Encinitas, Calif., finished second and earned $2,000. Hawaii surfers Hans Hedemann and Derek Ho finished equal third and won $1,000 each.

Surfers competed in one-on-one heats. In semifinals, they surfed for 30 minutes and were allowed to catch a maximum of 10 waves. An eight-member panel of judges scored each ride and the top four rides were totaled.

Curren

Curren ousted Hedemann in one semifinal and Gerlach defeated Ho in the other.

In the final, Curren and Gerlach surfed for 45 minutes. They were allowed 15 waves, the best six of which were totaled.

Gerlach, a second-year pro with an aggressive style, was the more flamboyant of the finalists. But Curren won the judges over with his control.

While Gerlach was spectacular in spots, Curren was consistently impressive. His strength was that he had no weakness.

"Tom was so much more precise," head judge Steve Fookes said.

"They're all pretty much doing the same things these days, so you have to break it down to the finer points. Curren is just so precise. He knows the system. He knows what he has to do (to win points) and then he just goes out and does it.

"The surfers who have beaten Curren have gotten better waves and really pushed it to the limits. When he gets the good waves he is very difficult to beat."

Despite his early domination of the tour, Curren was not completely satisfied.

"Overall, I was pleased," he said. "But I'm still not in the best of shape. I'm not as strong as I'd like to be. Forty-five minutes is a long time to surf, and I was getting pretty tired the last 15 minutes."

Gerlach knew the feeling well.

"It came down to physical fitness, and Tom was a lot stronger than I was," he said. "Tom spends a lot of time working out, and he can afford to because he's the world champion. I just don't have that kind of time. I can't afford to take off and work out.

"I'm also lacking Tom's consistency. But I can't feel bad about losing to him. I got beat by the best guy in the sport."

Island competitors — especially Ho, who lives in Waimanalo, surfs Sandy Beach on an almost daily basis and was awarded three perfect 10s in a heat earlier in the week — were thought to have an advantage in this meet.

But as Hedemann pointed out: "You have to remember that these are the very best surfers in the world. They can pick up on any break. I know there have been lots of times when I've gone over to a new place and beaten the locals there.

"I'm disappointed I didn't go further. As a competitor I'm always disappointed if I'm not in the final. But overall, I'm happy with third. It was good to surf here, with all my friends cheering me on."

Ho thought he fared better than the judges gave him credit for, but he accepted defeat graciously.

"I did what I could with the waves I got," he said. "I thought I did all right. I guess it wasn't enough, but you have to stick with the (scoring) system. You don't put a ball in a hole in this sport."

SURF NOTES: Mike Stewart won a pro bodyboard contest held in conjunction with the Gotcha meet. Pat Caldwell was second, Ben Severson third and Keith Sasaki fourth. . . . The top six amateur surfers in the Gotcha meet were, in order, Cedric Nishimura, Sean Mercado, John Shimooka, Matt Mondragon, Dex Shimabukuro and Todd Mitsui. All are from Hawaii.
